Outline

Take advantage of this webinar not only to discover, but also to build and shape the future of keep.eu. This tool that has been at the forefront of inter-programme knowledge management in Interreg. The platform continues to attract growing interest, not only from programme bodies and European institutions, but also from audiences such as researchers, think tanks, and potential beneficiaries.

This webinar is your opportunity to help decide what comes next. Should keep.eu serve your programme's potential project applicants and partners more directly? Should it continue collecting project output documents?

You'll receive a few practical tips to get the most out of keep.eu, including how to ensure it contains the right information on your programme's calls for projects—and how to easily build your programme's own project output document library using the platform.

If you work in an Interreg programme, a European Commission service, or a national, regional, or local authority, your perspective is key. We invite you to join us, share your thoughts, and learn more about a tool that could support both your work and that of your colleagues.

Objectives

By the end of this webinar, participants will have a better understanding of keep.eu, they will have voted on the possible paths that keep.eu will follow, and they will know more about what's to come.
